

Admin

Can use all the features of the company administration interface.

Can always invite new users and create shares.

Can modify user attributes, and permissions to any share.

Can always lock or unlock any file.

As an admin user, you are not able to delete or downgrade yourself.

Internal

May or may not be able to create shares (decided by company administrators).

Can invite other users to a share that the user is an Owner of.

New users invited by an Internal user are always External users. Users already part of the company keep their user type.

External

May never create a new share.

Can invite other users to a share that the user is an Owner of.

New users invited by an External user are always External users. Users already part of the company keep their user type.